

Models of care for people with intellectual disability

We are doing a project about the models of care for people with intellectual disability.

A model of care is the way a health service works for people.

We want to know what model of care is best for people with intellectual disability.

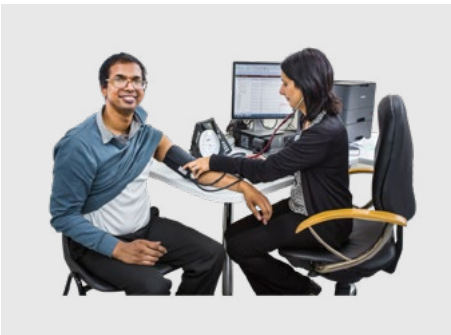

We also want to know what health services can do to give better health care.

Why we are doing the project

People with intellectual disability often do not get good health care.

We want to find out more about the health care people with intellectual disability get.

We want to find out things like

- Where they get health care
- How do they get health care.

What we are doing in the project

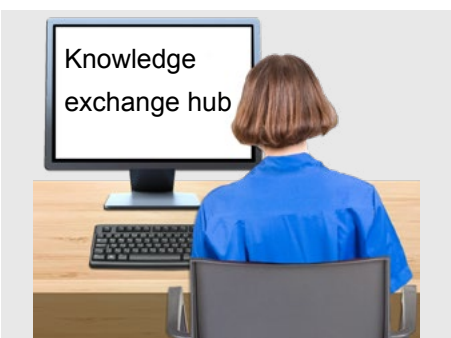

We will look into the best models of care for people with intellectual disability.

We will write a report about what we find out.

We will look at what information there is to help health services give good health care.

We will put information we find on the Knowledge Exchange Hub.

We will say hub for short.

The hub is an online place where people can talk and share ideas about health.

We will make information for health workers to support people with intellectual disability well.

About this information

National Centre of Excellence in Intellectual Disability Health made this information.

Go to www.nceidh.org.au

CID made this information Easy Read in March 2025.

CID is part of the National Centre of Excellence in Intellectual Disability Health consortium.

A consortium is a group of organisations that work together to get a goal.

Email CID at business@cid.org.au if you want to use any of the pictures.