

Teaching health workers about intellectual disability

We are doing a project to help health workers learn more about intellectual disability.

The project is for health workers like

- Doctors
- Nurses
- Dentists.

It will help them learn what health care people with intellectual disability need.

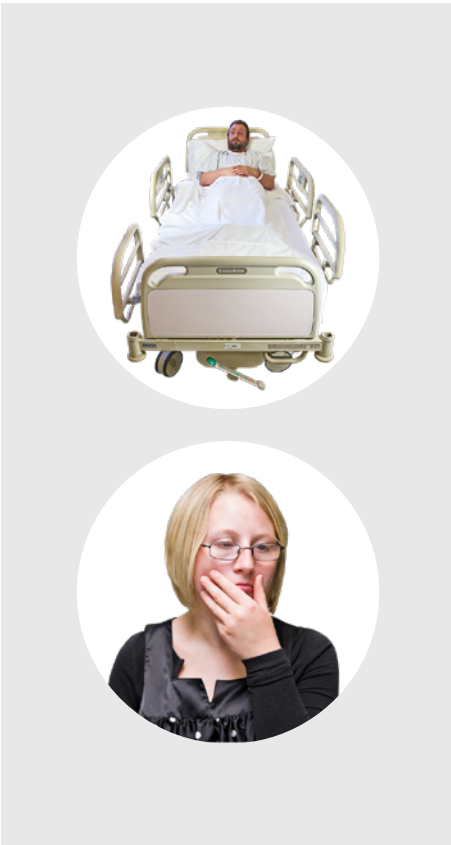

Why are we doing this project

Health workers often do not know what people with intellectual disability need for their health care.

They do not learn much about this when they study to be health workers.

This can make it hard for people with intellectual disability to

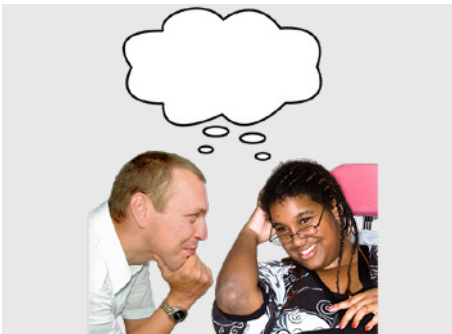

- Get good health care

- Find health services that are right for them.

What are we doing in the project

We will make a position statement that says what health workers need to learn.

A position statement says what we think about this issue.

We will ask people with intellectual disability how we can best train health workers.

This will help us think of ideas for training health workers should get.

We will make information that says

- What training health workers can get now about intellectual disability

- Our ideas for what training should be made for health workers.

About this information

National Centre of Excellence in Intellectual Disability Health made this information.

Go to www.nceidh.org.au

CID made this information Easy Read in February 2025.

CID is part of the National Centre of Excellence in Intellectual Disability Health consortium.

A consortium is a group of organisations that work together to get a goal.

Email CID at business@cid.org.au if you want to use any of the pictures.